This summer, the Missionary Oblates of Mary Immaculate will be leaving St. Peter's Parish after 162 years of service to this community. It has been a long and cherished history of shared ministry, life-giving relationships, and much-appreciated support from the members of the parish.

Throughout our history, the Oblates have gone to those places where the church was not yet present, where there was a need that was not being fulfilled. The Oblates came to New Westminster to serve Catholics who had settled in the area, and to help grow the church in the lower mainland and throughout the Fraser Valley.

OMI Lacombe Canada Province has been discerning our future ministry commitments and come to the realization that we need to make difficult decisions. As we grow smaller, we are not able to continue to serve in all the places we are currently. While diminishment and aging have contributed to our discernment, we're also asking, how God is calling us to proclaim the Good News to the poor, with the resources we have. We are choosing to leave parishes and communities that can be well served by the diocese and respond to needs elsewhere, including internal Oblate ministries, and our mission in Kenya.

Though it will be difficult to say farewell, we are mindful that our missionary call sometimes means we must leave cherished ministries and relationships for new areas of mission. St. Peter's is a thriving parish, with dedicated parishioners who participate enthusiastically in its life and mission. Painful as it will be to leave, we are confident that the collaboration between parishioners, Oblates, and so many others over the decades, has borne much fruit, and will continue to do so as a new chapter begins with this summer's transition.

God bless all the members of St. Peter's and know that we are grateful for your support over the years and that you will remain in our prayers.
